HAMILTON COUNTY LEADS.

[Special to The Indianapolis News].

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., August 22.—Hamilton county made a great record during the last year as a Percheron horse breeding district. The county stood first in the number of Percherons recorded a square mile and tied with Benton county in the total number of colts registered in the year.

Hamilton county breeders recorded twenty-nine colts. All of these were 1915 foals, except five head that were produced prior to 1915, and two colts, in 1916. The first ten counties in the state, according to the number of colts registered during the fiscal year ending October, 1916, were as follows: Benton, 29; Hamilton, 29; Randolph, 25; Jay, 17; Elkhart, 15; Clinton, 13; Lagrange, 13; Madison, 13; Wayne, 12, and Daviess, 10.

The progress Hamilton county is making as a draft horse producing community is due to the work of the Draft Horse Breeders Association, which was organized several years ago. Most of the breeders have been able to sell their horses more readily than ever before.

As evidence of the fact that Hamilton county is one of the Percheron centers of the United States, the Percheron Society of America is offering the same classification at the Noblesville horse show that it gives at the largest fairs in the country. The same ribbons are awarded here by the Percheron society as are given at the state fair.

The Percheron breeders of this county who registered colts last year, with the number of colts recorded, follow: T. E. Beals & Son, four; Fred O. Burton, one; J. R. Foulke & Son, four; Foulke & Simmons, one; M. C. Haworth, one; Cova Horney, one; H. W. Johnson & Son, two; E. P. Klepfer, one; Edgar Lively, one; C. M. McConnell, three; J. E. Reubelbush, one; J. E. Sutton & Son, seven, and Charles J. Wheelen, two.

EXEMPTION GRANTED TO FIVE HOSPITAL WORKERS

APPEAL BOARD SAYS INSANE PERSONS MUST HAVE CARE.

GOOD OF THE COMMUNITY

No matter what other business may have to be abandoned during the war with Germany, patients in the Central Indiana Hospital for the Insane must not be neglected, not only for their own good, but for the good of the community, according to the national army appeal board for the Third Indiana district, in session at the statehouse, which granted exemptions today to five employes of that institution.

The claims were allowed on the ground that the employes are engaged in work necessary to the maintenance of the national welfare and remain in force only during the employe's term of service at the hospital. Similar claims have been filed for ten other employes, but their cases have not yet come before the board.

Seventy-two cases were reviewed by the board at its session in the forenoon. Of this number eleven were granted, forty-six were denied, and the remainder were laid aside for further investigation. The board is swamped with work, and is endeavoring to pass on nearly 200 cases a day.

Request of Dr. Edenharter.

Dr. George F. Edenharter, superintendent of the Central Indiana Hospital for the Insane, who asked that the fifteen employes be exempted, submitted affidavits to the board on conditions at the hospital.

The affidavits show that since January 1, 1917, the hospital has lost by voluntary enlistments three physicians, two supervisors and thirty-four attendants, being approximately 30 per cent. of the total force in the three classes named.

In another part of the affidavits Dr. Edenharter said that insanity among the belligerents of other countries, due to explosives, gases and other horrors of modern trench warfare has increased at such a rate that the care of the insane soldiers has presented a grave problem to the hospital authorities. To care for them at the front or in military hospitals, he points out, is impossible, and seriously hampers the military establishments.

In view of all of this, he says, it is necessary to bring these unfortunates home and their care in proper hospitals for such cases has become a military duty of the first importance. Inquiries have already been received at the Indiana Hospital for the Insane as to how many the institution could care for and how soon it would be ready for this work.

Information also is given in the affidavits purporting to show that insanity increases among the civil population during a war period, many becoming insane from brooding over the war, meddling with military affairs, threatening public officials, exploiting freak inventions for carrying on the war, and claiming supernatural powers for ending the war. Such persons, he pointed out, are a source of danger to all communities and must be confined in hospitals.

Names of Exempted Men.

The men exempted by the board are George McPheeters, supervisor in charge of the wards and attendants; Dr. William Wentzel, a member of the medical staff, and three attendants.

The board reversed the Floyd county local board decision Tuesday afternoon in four of thirteen appealed cases from that county. It also passed on thirty exemption claims, based on industrial and agricultural grounds, denying all except one.

The appeals of Alvie N. Durkee, Gilbert G. Hoffman, Charles R. Dennison and Arthur L. Fenwick, all of New Albany, were granted by the board, after the men had shown in their affidavits that their wives are dependent on them and are without other means of support. The affidavits showed the wives of three of the men are invalids. The Floyd county selection board had refused exemption to these men on the grounds that their wives could get along on the army pay of the husbands.

Brother in the Service.

The one exemption claim that was granted by the board Tuesday afternoon was that of Oliver O. Pepper, of Lebanon. Pepper showed that his brother, John Pepper, is a member of Company H, Second Indiana, and said that he is needed at home to assist his father in harvesting the crops.

Blanchard H. Commack, of Noblesville, and Raymond T. Briles and Arthur Foulke, of Cicero, all asked to be exempted on the ground that they are members of a well-organized religious sect, whose existing creed forbids its members from participating in war. The board denied the claims of these men, but will notify the local boards that these registrants should not be compelled to serve in any capacity except that which has been declared by the President to be noncombatant.

In several of the claims considered by the board Tuesday the applicants asked to be granted exemption until they can complete harvesting their crops. Their claims were denied, but when their names are certified back to the local boards the appeal board will recommend that the names of these men be placed in the list of the last 30 per cent. to be called on the first draft.

In Matter of Dependency.

The district board has received several letters during the last few days containing information to the effect that some of the local boards have been imposed on by some claimants in the matter of dependency. One letter informed the board that one man, whose wife is self-supporting and whose parents have considerable property, received exemption because of a "dependent wife." Letters of this kind are closely scrutinized by the board and if further investigation reveals that the condition is true the decisions of the local boards are reversed.

Registrants from various counties in the district have been making personal trips to the board's headquarters in quest of information relative to exemption claims and appealed cases. The board has announced that these registrants may save time and money by writing to the board for this information. All letters in which information is asked receive careful consideration.

OPINION ON DEPENDENCY.

Hughes Says Wife of Registrant Need Not Go to Work.

NEW YORK, August 22.—The draft registrant whose wife and family depend solely on his labor for their support has grounds for discharge if he appeals from the finding of the local exemption board to the district appeal board, according to a statement by Charles E. Hughes, chairman of the New York district board. The statement was mailed to district boards throughout the state for their guidance.

Mr. Hughes, who was selected by the conference of district chairmen last week to investigate the question, which has been the cause of so many conflicting opinions, said in his statement that he did not concur in the view that the wife should go to work to support herself and children.

"Bona fide dependency of the wife and children on the labor of the applicant, where, in his absence, they will be without reasonably adequate support after duly taking into consideration the soldier's wage and the support available from relatives, as stated in the ruling of the provost marshal-general, is ground for discharge," said Mr. Hughes.

Young Gould Physically Unfit.

TOMS RIVER, N. J. August 22.—George J. Gould, Jr., of Lakewood, N. J., appeared before the draft exemption board here and was rejected as being physically unfit.

MEDICAL INSPECTION IN SCHOOLS CHANGED

EIGHT MEN TO GIVE MORE TIME TO THE WORK.

The city board of health at a meeting held early this afternoon reorganized its school medical inspection department and decided to adopt plans that will place the work of the department on an efficient basis. Instead of conducting the medical inspection work in the schools with the assistance of thirty-two school inspectors and one chief inspector, who devote only part of their time to the work, the board decided to employ only eight inspectors who would devote one-half a day each week to the work during each school day.

The plans for reorganizing the school inspection department were discussed by the board more than a year ago, but there were so many favorites of the Bell-Perrott machine who held jobs under the old system that the board's plans were blocked. Members of the board have said openly on many occasions that the old method of conducting medical examinations of school children was not efficient.

Eight nurses were employed by the board last year to assist the thirty-two school medical inspectors. When the board employes only eight inspectors, the number of nurses to be doubled, according to plans discussed by the board today.

Following are the eight school medical inspectors appointed for next year: Drs. G. W. Seaton, W. H. Long, A. W. Miller, G. W. Hobbs, Martha Smith, Carrie Reid, J. L. Conley and William Gibbs.

TO PROMOTE ECONOMY AMONG THE MERCHANTS

COMMITTEE NAMED BY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

TO COVER ENTIRE STATE

Action to bring closer relations between the Indiana state council of defense and the retail merchants of Indiana was taken today at the meeting of the council at the statehouse. Will H. Hays, chairman of the council, appointed members of a committee to be known as the merchants' economy committee, which is to be a branch of the council.

Recently, following recommendations made by the commercial economy board of the national council of defense, retail merchants over the country took steps to reduce deliveries and eliminate the return of merchandise as a war economy measure. Investigation made by the government showed that millions of dollars were lost annually in the unnecessary return of deliveries.

Members of Committee.

The members of the committee, which has already organized and made a report to the council as announced by Chairman Hays are as follows: Frederic M. Ayres, chairman, Indianapolis; R. A. Andres, Evansville; H. W. Eldridge, South Bend; Myer Heller, president Indiana Retail Dry Goods Association, Newcastle; Milton Herz, Terre Haute; J. E. Karns, president Indianapolis Business Men's Association, Indianapolis; David Meyer, president Indiana Retail Grocers' Association, Anderson; C. M. Mills, president Indiana Retail Merchants' Association, Ft. Wayne; S. W. Newberger, New Albany; Lee B. Nusbaum, Richmond; J. C. O'Hara, Muncie; John H. Schuessler, Lafayette; Carl S. Wise, Logansport, and W. E. Balch, secretary, Indianapolis.

The report of the committee to Chairman Hays recommended to the state council of defense that it request the merchants throughout Indiana to conform to the rules and regulations regarding the delivery and return of merchandise that were adopted by the merchants of the United States at the meeting held in Washington, D. C., July 10.

These rules provided that the package deliveries be reduced to two a day in all cities in the country in districts lying close to the downtown district, and that for all other districts one delivery a day should be sufficient. By this reduction of deliveries many men and capital would be conserved to be used for a better purpose.

Special Charge.

A special charge for special deliveries was recommended, the amount of the charge to be decided by the local retail merchants, based on the cost of handling.

Stringent rules were made concerning the return of merchandise, it having been shown that not only is the promiscuous return of merchandise altogether unsanitary, but that annually millions of dollars were being lost by merchants being made to accept for return merchandise in a wholly unsaleable condition.

The regulations further provided that all customers who continually make unjust claims on the merchant or who return C. O. D. merchandise should be regarded in a light of undesirable credit risks, and that their unwarranted practice should stand against their credit record.

In order that the requests of the state council of defense be complied with by all merchants of Indiana, the state has been divided into districts, each district being in the charge of one of the members of the merchants' economy committee.

It will be the duty of each chairman of this committee to call to his city all the merchants of his district, acquaint them fully with the requests of the Indiana state council of defense and pledge them to the end that every merchant in their vicinity will comply with these regulations. In this manner the movement will become immediately effective throughout the state.

Duties of Merchants.

The merchants will be requested to give this movement as much publicity as possible, both in their local papers, and by displaying attractive placards in their stores, calling on the trade to assist them as far as possible by carrying home their packages, by making their purchases carefully so that it will not be necessary to ask that merchandise be accepted for return, and to eliminate C. O. D. orders wherever possible.

The names of all merchants complying with these rules will be forwarded to the secretary of the merchants' economy committee, state council of defense at Indianapolis, as well as the names of all merchants not complying with the request. These names will then be forwarded to Washington at the request of the government, as it is the intention of the government to know that retail merchants throughout the country economize along the lines laid down.

"Wherever these rules have been adopted by the retail merchants," said Mr. Balsh, secretary of the committee, "it has been shown that they worked no hardship, but on the other hand, they effected economy.

"The rules are altogether reasonable, and when put into effect will inconvenience no one. The number of men and the amount of capital employed in the delivery services of retail stores have increased at a tremendous rate, all of which is unnecessary and during this time of war, when every one is practicing economy, is wholly unwarranted."

COUNCILS OF DEFENSE TO MEET AT CHICAGO

PRODUCTION AND COAL DISTRIBUTION MAY BE TOPICS.

BARNARD REPORTS ON FOOD

Members of the state council of defense who met today at the statehouse adopted a resolution asking members of a special committee who attended a conference of state councils of defense in Chicago last week to attnd a similar meeting scheduled to be held in Chicago tomorrow.

The conference in Chicago last week was called for the purpose of taking some action regarding the coal situation and as a result of the meting a resolution was passed asking the President to act under the law recently passed by congress. Members of the Indiana state council who attended the conference were Will H. Hays, Charles Fox, William G. Irwin, H. R. Kurrie, E. M. Wilson and Evans Wollen.

Kurrie's Resolution.

The resolution asking the same committee to attend the conference tomorrow, which was introduced at the meeting today by Mr. Kurrie, is as follows: "Resolver that the committee heretofore papointed, attend the meeting of the state councils of defense in Chicago tomorrow, and that while there the committee endeavor to bring about a recognition of the fact that the questions of regulation of the production, sale and distribution of coal are questions for national control as more fulry expressed in resolutions passed by this council at is last meeting."

Some of the members of the council brought up the question that, as President Wilson has in the meantime assumed control of the coal situation, it might not be necessary for the committee to attend the conference tomorrow. Mr. Kurrie said he believed it would be beenficial to the general plan of coal regulation for the committee to go to Chicago, and brought out the point that although the question of coal prices will be handled by the federal government, the problem of coal supply and distribution will in the future be important.

Advises Attendance.

He said that this question might possibly be discussed by the conference tomorrow and advised that the Indiana members should take part in this discussion.

Members of the council expressed gratification over the action taken by the President in fixing the prices of coal at the mines. It has been the opinion of members of the Indiana council that the quickest way to the solution of the coal problem was through federal action. Members of the council regarded the President's action as representing a victory for the "Indiana idea," as it was largely through the argments of the Indiana members that the conference last week adopted the resolution which was sent to President Wilson.

Chairman Hays gave a brief report of the proceedings of the conference at Chicago last week, during which he read a telegram which Governor Goodrich received yesterday from President Wilson in answer to an inquiry of the Governor's concerning the coal problem.

President's Telegram.

This telegram, which indicated that the President was considering immediate action in the matter, was as follows:

"I am actively engaged in bringing about an organization of full control and beg to assure you that in the exercise of that control everything possible will be done to meet the ends mentioned in your important telegram of August 18."

Mr. Hays in his report mentioned the fact that the Indiana state council of defense had gone oon record as favoring the federal control of the coal situation as far back as June 27, in a resolution adopted by the council at that time.

Food Supply Report.

Mr. Barnard read a report of investigations which he is carrying on in the state on the problem of food supply. These investigations which are being made through the county health officers, he said, ten to show that little food is being wasted in t he state at the present time.

Frank Wampler, chairman of the committee on communications said that through efforts which have recently been made, about 80 per cent. of the telephon companies in the tsate have agreed to give government service preference on the wires. Practically all the large companies, he said, are now ready to give special preference to government calls.

Forty Women Hoax Themselves.

[Special to The Indianapolis News]

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., August 22.—When City Judge Newton Tuesday telephoned witnesses in Seelyville that the case of Dell Shaffer Kabbes, former resort owner in Terre Haute, who had moved to Seelyville, had been postponed, the Seelyville people thought it was Charles Whitlock, Mrs. Kabbes's attorney, trying to hoax them. They refused to obey, and Wednesday morning appeared in the city court, forty women and three men, and looked triumphantly around for Whitlock. Whitlock, however, was home sick. Judge Newton reprimanded the witnesses for their suspicious attitude and sent them back home. He continued Mrs. Kabbes's case.

The Food Problem in Summer

It is easy to prepare nourishing, strengthening, wholesome meals in Summer at low cost without spending much time in the kitchen if you only know how to select foods.

It is time to cut out the heavy, expensive foods which are hard to digest and which contain little nutriment.

It is what you digest, not what you eat, that builds healthy tissue and supplies energy for the day's work.

Every loyal American will want to do his bit in preventing waste of wheat and other food staples. The best way to prevent waste is to demand the whole wheat grain in breakfast foods and breadstuffs.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit

is 100 per cent. whole wheat prepared in a digestible form. The conservation of health and strength at this time calls for meatless meals, not wheatless meals. Shredded Wheat is all food—nothing wasted, nothing thrown away.

Whole wheat is the most perfect food given to man and contains every element the human body needs.

Two or three Shredded Wheat Biscuit with milk and sliced bananas, berries, peaches, or other fruits, make a nourishing, satisfying meal for the Summer days at a cost of a few pennies.

Made only by THE SHREDDED WHEAT COMPANY, Niagara Falls, N. Y.
